

Reminder about bowel cancer screening

About a month ago, the Region sent you an invitation to take part in a screening program for bowel cancer (also called colorectal cancer). However, the laboratory has not yet received your stool sample.

You still have time to submit a stool sample with the sample kit that we sent to you earlier. If you wish to be screened for bowel cancer, please take a stool sample as soon as possible and send it by post in the stamped reply envelope.

You can read the instructions for taking the stool sample here.

If you have planned a trip, please wait to take the test until you have returned home.

If we do not hear from you, you will receive a new invitation for bowel cancer screening in approximately two years, unless you have turned 75 years old by then.

Do you have any questions?

If you have lost the sample set, have questions, if you are already receiving treatment or if you are being checked for an intestinal disease, you can contact the screening secretariat in your region. You can also contact the screening secretariat if you do not wish to participate.
